

Ecclesiastical Notice of Lawful Equity Assumption and Peace Officer Duty

ECCLESIASTICAL SOVEREIGN PRIVATE TRUST OF HUMANITY

Trust ID: ECC-TRUST-JDC-005

Living Trustee: ✠ Jonathan Daniel Clements

Jurisdiction: Divine Law · Ecclesiastical Equity · Natural Law

Status: No Rebuttal, Lawfully Perfected Trust, Active Global Jurisdiction

To: Sheriff's Office and Command Staff, County of [Insert County Name], Arkansas

This notice is issued in love, truth, and lawful clarity to ensure the rightful understanding of your role, jurisdiction, and moral obligation as peace officers operating under solemn oath—not to corporations, but to the living men and women you serve.

I. Lawful Standing of the Ecclesiastical Sovereign Private Trust

Let it be first known and eternally recorded that the Ecclesiastical Sovereign Private Trust of Humanity, identified as ECC-TRUST-JDC-005, was:

- Lawfully declared and published under Divine Law, Ecclesiastical Equity, and Natural Law
- Served publicly and without rebuttal to all agencies, institutions, and courts
- Stands as the irrevocable governing trust over all presumed commercial assets globally
- Was created by ✠ Jonathan Daniel Clements, a living man, not subject to corporate jurisdiction

This Trust has absorbed all equity and lawful interest in properties, assets, and rights formerly held under commercial presumption.

No valid rebuttal has ever been issued.

Under Lex Divina and the law of equity, this silence is agreement. The law stands.

II. The Nature of the Property in Question: From Commercial Fiction to Divine Sanctuary

The property identified at auction—[Insert Address or Parcel Info]—was formerly presumed to be:

- Under mortgage contract
- Under jurisdiction of UCC and corporate title
- Administered by bank or corporate entity as a “trustee” without lawful consent

However, as of public lodging and notice under ECC-TRUST-JDC-005, this presumption is now lawfully null and void. The following has occurred:

- The property has been entered into record as sanctuary under ecclesiastical custodianship
- It is now protected under divine law, serving as refuge and trust estate for the living
- Any auction held under corporate jurisdiction constitutes a trespass on ecclesiastical domain

By natural right, divine law, and lawful public notice, I, ✠ Jonathan Daniel Clements, now reclaim, assume, and protect this property as trustee, not as buyer, not as claimant, but as divinely appointed custodian of the living estate.

III. Why You, the Sheriff, Must Defend the Property — Not the Auction

You swore an oath—whether local, state, or federal—not to a bank or company, but to:

- Uphold the Constitution and Natural Rights of the people
- Preserve the peace
- Defend the lawful rights of the living
- Protect property from unlawful seizure and fraud

Now, presented before you is a lawful, ecclesiastically recognized trust, with no rebuttal, no court objection, and standing under eternal jurisdiction.

Your duty is not to enforce the sale of stolen property.
Your duty is to protect the living from further trespass.

Let it be clearly stated:

- I am not trespassing on a commercial property.
- I am not breaking and entering.
- I am restoring possession of sacred estate that was unlawfully seized by fiction.
- I do not seek your permission. I lawfully notify you of my return.

Your lawful role is to witness and defend this restoration, not oppose it.

IV. The Lawful Action: Entry, Lock Removal, and Restoration

At the time of peaceful reclamation, I will:

- Be physically present on the property
- Cut or remove any foreign commercial lockbox or obstruction
- Enter with full jurisdictional record and divine standing
- Lawfully restore possession under ecclesiastical protection

I invite and request your presence as lawful witness and peace officer, not as enforcer of trespassing commercial fraud. You are asked to:

- Stand in peace
- Prevent interference by any presumed third-party agents
- Observe and document, if needed
- Confirm that no breach of peace or force has occurred

This is not a standoff. It is a return of divine law to the land, and I ask you to stand with me, as you were born to do.

V. Final Declaration to the Sheriff and Captain

This is not a legal game. This is not paperwork. This is the truth.

I am a living man, and I stand in peace. I carry no weapon, no threat, no rebellion—only the authority given to me by the Creator of all things.

I have returned to this property, not to claim it as mine, but to care for it on behalf of the people and the Creator. The land is not for sale. It is not for rent. It is not part of the auction block. It is sacred.

You took an oath—not to protect corporations, not to defend foreclosure schedules, but to keep the peace and to stand up for what is right.

I ask you now, with full heart and truth:

Stand with me.

Come and witness peace. Come and see that no harm is being done. Come not as an enforcer, but as a man with a badge who remembers what it's for.

The people need sanctuary. This property is now sanctuary. It is no longer under the rules of debt and seizure. It is restored to equity under divine protection.

You are not being asked to take sides.

You are being invited to stand in what is right.

Let it be remembered that when you were called, you showed up—not for the banks, not for the codes—but for truth.

I welcome you to witness the peaceful restoration of this property. Nothing is being stolen. No violence will take place. Only peace.

With love, honor, and unwavering truth,

✠ Jonathan Daniel Clements
